THE 1ST NATIONAL SEMINAR
ON :

GOVERNANCE AND LOCAL DEVELOPMENT

Honorary President: Dr. Smadi Hacem
Seminar President: Dr. Habibi Yahyaoui

Date of the event: October 10-11-12, 2023

PROBLEMATIC OF THE SEMINAR

Around the world today, we are witnessing crises that arise between territories, citizens, and institutions. Multidimensional development, diversity of local actors, and the growing desire of citizens to engage and participate in local decision-making processes are all factors that fundamentally alter the equation of governance and its conceptual scope. Local development is the process by which the economic and social activities of a territory diversify and enrich themselves by mobilizing and coordinating their resources and energies.

The purpose of this seminar is to take a look at governance and local development in Algeria, considering the experiences lived on the national territory and their local specificities, and to question the impact and role of actors in territorial development (businesses, associational movements, local administration, etc.). The new vision for local development must be translated into a "multidimensional, coherent, and transparent" approach integrating economic, social, and environmental dimension.

AXES OF THE SEMINAR

- Axis 1: Planning, territorial development, and socio-spatial inequalities
- Axis 2: Climate change and water resources
- Axis 3: Major risk management and territorial resilience
- Axis 4: Tourism, territorial attractiveness, and environmental protection
- Axis 5: Geo-resources and sustainability

OBJECTIVES

The paradigm of local development relies on the ability of various actors to come together around a shared project, aimed at common development by mobilizing existing resources and potential on the territory. Besides, this seminar brings together researchers, organizations, officials, experts, and associations with the following objectives:

1. Open a dialogue among various local development actors to highlight fundamental questions related to local governance;
2. Develop recommendations necessary for a new vision of local development;
3. Understand and examine the new economic, social, and environmental dynamics essential to local development;
4. Determine the scientific and operational framework for a "multidimensional, coherent, and transparent" approach to local governance and development that integrates local territorial dimensions
